PRIEST'S ABSENCE STILL UNEXPLAINED

No Word Has Been Received by the Puzzled Parishioners of Rev. Father Sander, of Brooklyn - Mrs. Kipp's Relatives Wait for News of Her.

Hundreds of the parishioners of Rev. Father George D. Sander, pastor of St. L onard's Roman Catholic Church, Brooklyn, called at the rectory to-day, but were unable to obtain any news of him. He left home after saying mass yesterday morning and has sent no word as to his where-

Mrs. Mamie Kipp, who had lived for two years as the housekeeper of the Far Hills stock farm as "Mrs. George West," has not been seen by members of her family since she boarded a car in Brooklyn to go to her mother's home.

PRIEST GOES FROM HOME.

When Father Sander left home yesterday he told his assistant and his housekeeper that they would hear from him in the evening. They did not hear from him last night or to-day, although the rectory has been besieged by his friends, who insist that Father Sander will be able to explain his actions.

They say there can be no doubt of the assertions of Father Sander, o the woman and of Joseph Peck, "George West's" stock farm partner, that, although the priest posed in New Jersey as "George West" and the woman sed as "Mrs. George West," there was nothing wrong in their relations. No charges of impropriety have been made by any one.

William Sander, an undertaker, brother and defender of the priest said to-day that he was greatly surprised because he had heard nothing from Father Sander. He could not understand it. He could think of no place where his brother might seek refuge. He was anxious that his prother return and refute the insinuations which had been made by those who have doubted the denials.

WOMAN NOT AT MOTHERS.

Mrs. Mary Obermeyer, mother of Mrs. Kipp, who lives at Chester Park, near Jamaica, is equally anxious to get some trace of her daughter. The last seen of her was when Joseph Peck put her on a car bound for he mother's home. She has not reached there.

Word was received from Mrs. Kipp on Monday that she would visit her mother on Wednesday or Thursday.

Mrs. Obermeyer lives with her other married daughter, Mrs. Crescentia Seibel, a printer. Speaking for her mother, who is sixty years old and very infirm, Mrs. Seibel to-day told an Evening World reporter about Mrs. Kipp's feller interests will predominate. acquaintance with Father Sander and her life as housekeeper at the Jersey stock farm conducted by the priest and his partner, Joseph C. Peck.

"We cannot understand," said Mrs. Siebel, "how Mamie came to be known as Mrs. West.' She never went under her own married name out to the utter ruination of thousands of small holders. there, but had us send all our letters to 'Mamie Obermeyer, care of Joseph
